HOT, SMART, WOMAN SAVES THE PLANET...

Her name is Sophia. She is gorgeous, intuitive, loving, gifted smart and a born leader. She and a small group of people were hand picked by an alien culture to be trained to reach a highly advanced state of mind called lightspace.

But there was a catch, an ultimatum. The law of the universe is that any species about to reach the capacity for long-range space travel must prove it has a dominant desire for peace or it will be destroyed to protect the more advanced, peaceful planets of the Milky Way.

Can this small group of lightspace graduates find and train enough people to prove to the alien cultures that we can be nonviolent toward our new neighbors? The stakes are as high as they get. Our history is not in our favor. It's all over if we don't find enough of the right people, fast!

AUTHOR'S NOTE:

The LightSpace Ultimatum is my most creative endeavor. I wanted to blend my best insights from thirty years as a sales performance coach into an entertaining story. The story is told by a smart, young, attractive guy who likes to party and chase women, and has some maturing to do. The real hero is Sophia who's pulling all the strings against tremendous odds to make it possible for the human race to have a tomorrow. Sophia is also a tribute to my brilliant women mentors. Mild sexual content and some violence give this novel a R rating.
